PRIDAY MORNING, October 26, 1869.

JACKSON-SCOTT-BENTON. onciled to several gentlemen whom he had been terms, and at the very lowest long wont to reckon in the catalogue of his foes. Gen. Winfield Scott was in Washington at the beginning of the session; and, desirous to know what he had to expect in case he should meet General Jackson, addressed to him the following note:- "Sir, one portion of the American community has long attributed to you the mest distinguished magnanimity, and the other portion the greatest desperation in your resentments-am I to conclude that both are equally in error? I allude to circumstances which have transpired between us, and which need not here be recapulated, and to the fact that I have now 100 packages DOM. BRANDY been six days in your immediate vicinity without having attracted your notice. As this is the first time in my life that I have been within a hundred miles of you, and as it is barely possible that you may be ignorant of my presence, I beg leave to state that I shall not leave the District before the morning of the fourteenth instant.

To this General Jackson returned the following answer:-"Sir, your letter of to-day has been received. Whether the world is correct or in error, as regards my 'magnanimity,' is for the world to decide. I am satistied of one fact that when you, shall know me better, you will not be disposed to harbor | BAKER'S ISLAND G UANO! the opinion, that anything like 'desperation | I HE undersigned have been appointed by Wilin resentment' attaches to me. Your letter is ambiguous; but, concluding from occurren- this city, for the sale of ces heretofore, that it was written with friendly views, I take the liberty of saying to you, that whenever you shall feel disposed to meet me on friendly terms, that disposition will not be met by any other than a corresponding feeling on my part."

changed friendly salutations, and remained on terms of civility for several years.

But the most remarkable case of reconciliation was that which occurred between General Jackson and Colonel Thomas H. Benton, whose brother Jesse's bullet, General Jackson still carried about with him, embedded in the flesh of his left arm. "Well," exclaimed Colonel Benton, in one of his letters of this period. "how many changes in this life! General Jackson is now sitting in the Insoluble matter, Sand, Phosphate of Iron chair next to me. There was a vacant one next to me; and he took it for the session .--Several senators saw our situation and offered meditation. I declined it upon the ground that what had happened could neither be explained, recanted nor denied. After this we were put upon the same committee. Facing me one day, as we sat in our seats, he said to me, Colonel, we are on the same committee: 1 will give you notice when it is necessary to attend.' (He was chairman and had right to summon us.) I answered, "General, make GLASSWARE the time suit yourself; it will be convenient for me to attend at any time.' In committee we did business together just as other persons. After, that, he asked me how my wife was, and I asked him how his was. Then he called and left his card at my lodgings--Anrew Jackson, for Colonel Benton and lady forthwith I called at his and left mine-Colonel Benton, for General Jackson. Since then we have dined together at several places, and vesterday at the President's I made him the first bow; he held forth his hand, and we establishment, and at prices which favorably comshook hands. I then introduced him to my pare with any in the larger cities. wife, and thus civil relations are perfectly established between us. Jackson has gained since he has been here, by his mild and conciliatory manner."-Parton's life of Benton.

A CANINE BOARDING House .- At a place called the "Half-way House," situated about four miles from Jersey City, is an establishment for the boarding of canines, conducted by one Oscar Sanford. This is not a newfingled notion, for Oscar has been in the business for over twenty years. Oscar, says the New York Tribune, makes a good thing of it, sometimes as many as thirty canine boarders have assembled around his quadrupedal table. Mr. Sandford gives his personal attention to the canine kitchen, and the food for his four-legged guests is dished up in the highest style of art by his own experienced hands. The routine is as follows: -As soon as they wake from their peaceful slumbers, which they generally do at a pretty early hour, say 5 A. M., they are turned loose in a small park of three-quarters of an acre, where they are permitted to run and romp for half an hour, being incited to active exercise by the exertions of a small boy who also has instructions to allow no unfriendly feeling among his little flock. They of which they have all they choose to eat. In fact, this homely but wholesome dish is the staple of their food. In summer they have no meat whatever, as it has been found to make them feverish and cause the loss of season they are carnivorously indulged, and have meat once a day, and at night. In summer they breakfast at half-past six, in winter at eight. They are allowed all the permitted to romp about till noon in close | dealings with us satisfactory. quarters; at uoon they are fed again; after which they have an hour's run over the fields. | Caps, of the latest styles which we have just realways under the supervision of the attendant. At sundown they are fed again, after which they retire to their various beds, and forget the world until next morning.

The terms are fifty cents a week for board washing, lodging and attendance, and of course the high price secures the presence Stone Martin, Fitch, Siberian Squirrel, Water ratic rank in the world, common curs not and Swansdown Trimmings. All of the above being able to stand the pecuniary pressure. will be sold wholesale and retail at reduced prices. The elect and chosen ones of the canine society of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are here, together with a sprinkling of the chivalry from New Orleans. Political differences are comparatively unknown. North and South dwell amicably togetherthe most perfect freedom of bark is tolerated | Pans, Coffee Roasters, Footmen to hang on Grates, and as yet there has been no instance of the Plate Warmers, Apple Parers, Knife Cleaners, untimely slaughter of a Northern dog for the atterance of a Lincoln and Hamlin yelp, nor has any Southern animal come to sudden grief by reason of a Breckinridge howl.

Two years ago Piedmont bad a population of but five millions; the treaty of Zurich gave her Lombardy, with two millions; then from, and shall be pleased to show them to you. came the additions of Tuscany, two millions; and Modena and Parma; then the Romagna; they are what they are represented to be. and then the South of Italy, Now twenty-one millions of Italians, for the first time in all history, are united into a national power.
